Useful Information

The Soil and Planting—Roses will grow in a variety of soils providing it is well drained and is rich in fertilizing elements.

In planting have the point where the graft joins the main stem below the ground surface. Firm the soil well around the plant leaving a depression rather than hilled up. Water thoroughly and protect plants from dry winds until buds begin to swell. A peach basket, burlap, or straw will do. To insure success spray the plants with water two or three times a day until buds swell.

Hybrid Tea Roses should be planted 15 or 18 inches apart. Climbers 4 or 5 feet.

Mulch with an inch or two of peat moss to keep moisture in the ground and prevent weed growth during the summer.

For Mildew and Black Spot—Leaf eating insects, Worms and Beetles. Dust plants with Green Sulphur-lead, dust weekly, this does not dis-color foliage.

For Sucking Insects—Aphis, etc., that curl the leaves and spoil the buds  $1\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoonful "Black Leaf 40", one ounce laundry soap, melted, 1 gallon of water.

Combination Fungicide and Insecticide—Pyrox, Bordeaux mixture and arsenate of lead, 5 ounces of Pyrox to 1 gallon of water, 1 teaspoonful of "Black Leaf 40." Stainless grades of Bordeaux mixture may be obtained.

Fertilizer—Commercial tankage may be applied every two weeks, equal parts, tankage, super-phosphate and bone-meal is an ideal food a handful scattered around each plant and well watered into the soil.

Water—Soak around each plant once a week with water. Syringe every bright day with water under force to control "Aphis" and keep wood soft and in growing condition.

Cultivation—Stir the soil frequently not over one inch in depth, if ground is not protected with mulch.

Pruning—Prune out all weak wood at all times. Do not allow flowers to remain on plant after maturity. In cutting old or new flowers cut back to two eyes from main stem. Do not prune after September 1st.

Winter Protection—Before the ground freezes, the soil should be drawn up to the base of the plant in a mound 7 to 8 inches high. After the ground has frozen cover the entire bed with straw or dry leaves, placing evergreen boughs on the top to prevent the leaves blowing away. Do not uncover too early, as the Spring sun and winds cause great damage. When so protected, even the most tender varieties of Hybrid Tea Roses are entirely hardy as far north as Winnipeg.
